A Note From Our Dean of Students

This uniform guide is meant to help parents and students understand the expectations of daily attire at Ascent of Northern Colorado. While there are many campuses of Ascent, the guidelines contained here apply only to the Windsor campus. This document is your best source for information regarding ACANC uniforms and dress code; other resources may be outdated or applicable only to other locations.

What's the point of a uniform or dress code?

- Dress code helps students prepare their minds for the day's work by preparing their bodies daily in attire that shows respect and reverence for the learning that goes on in school.
- When students pass through our doors, they become a part of something larger than themselves.
 - Students at Ascent wear our uniform to show that they are representatives of the school community. They are not customers of the school, but active participants in its work. Wearing the uniform shows that all students are here for the same purpose: to develop their minds and improve their hearts for the purpose of living truly happy lives.
- Dress code presents a daily opportunity for character development.
 - There is nothing inherently moral about khaki or navy skirts, orange or purple socks. Each morning, however, a student has the chance to know what is expected of them in the dress code and can choose to meet that expectation or not. They can practice virtue and comply with the expectations, or practice vice and choose to break expectations. Whether or not a uniform violation is caught, the habit of virtue or vice is already forming. We ask our parents to partner with us in forming young men and women of character by reinforcing the importance of following dress code as a matter of the heart, rather than of comfort or style.

The uniform is far more than just a dress code. In some ways, it is the heart of what we do. To my students: I urge you to be faithful in the small things - the details of socks and hair ties and what color pants to wear on Wednesdays - so that one day you will be faithful in the great things. The choices we make now determine who we will become.

Ad maiora ex tenebris,

Ms. Ramsey
Dean of Students

If you feel the dress code conflicts with the practice of your faith, please contact our Headmaster, Mr. Kramer.
